About 200 Knights representing the 111 lodges in this State were present and the meeting was a most interesting and successful one. Several supreme officers were present including Past Supreme Chancellor W. W. Blackwell, of Lima, O, and Supreme Chancellor W. B. Ritchie, of Indiana. A good deal of work was accomplished and several questions that have been pending for some time were settled. Covington was decided on for the meeting next year and the following grand officers were elected: Grand Chancellor, Dr. R. L. Agnew, of Sebree; Grand Vice Chancellor, Stanley Adams, of Louisville; Grand Prelate, W. P. Settle, of Bowling Green; Grand Keeper of Records and Seal, Wade Sheltman, of Louisville; Grand Master of Exchequer George Glendon, of Covington; Grand ington; Grand Inner Guard, Wm. Powers, of Carrollton; Grand Outer Guard, J. B. Thornton, of Somerset.

Henry Wellenvoss, a delegrate from a German lodge in Louisville, got out an injunction against the Grand Lodge because it denied him admission, on the ground that his lodge used a German ritual. The laws of the Order clearly state that the ritual is to be printed only in English. The proceedings were heard Wednesday by Judge T. Z. Morrow, who withheld his decision. O. H. Waddle represented Wellenvoss and W. A. Morrow the Grand Lodge.

W. P. WALTON.

THE Courier-Jouanal of Wednesday contains an interview with Gov. Buckner, which is a scathing arraignment of Gen. Hardin for his war on democratic principles as expressed by the the party on the financial question, for which he says there is no justification or excuse, after he had said before the nomination that "it was the duty of every democrat to submit to the will of his party deliberately expressed, and to accept the combined wisdom of the whole as his rule of action," which statement secured him the nomination. The governor shows in his clear and convincing way that neither the Netional nor the State platform permits the construction Gen. Hardin puts on them now, when all the free silverites admitted at the time of the State declaration that it was pronouncedly for a single standard. That Gen. Hardin thought so at the time is shown by his hesitating to accept the nomination on such a platform, after Senator Blackburn had advised him not to. The reckless insubordination of Gen. Hardin has brought needless division in the ranks, but Gov. Buckner thinks that whatever reasons may exist for resentment at his course are overbalanced by stronger reasons for supporting the entire ticket. It is composed of gentlemen admirably qualified for the respective positions to which the party has named them, and their election should not be imperiled by a dissatisfaction which would keep any democrat from the polls. The only way of achieving success is by a compact and continuous organization which will support the nominees, and the governor says he will unhesitatingly the man, whenever he dares to offer for vote for the whole ticket, advising all office again. Rolls is a very small potaothers to do so. The governor of Kentucky will have nothing to do with oblivion. the solution of the silver question, except through the vague possibility of an appointment of a U. S. Senator, a contingency not likely to arise, since Senators seldom die and few resign. The governor urges just what the INTERIOR JOURNAL has all the time-that it is better to support a democrat who is right on all questions but one, and who has heretofore done valiant service for his party, than to aid by vote or sulks in the election of a ticket whose principles represent everything antagonistic to democratic beliefs and whose advancement would be a menace to good government. If the defeat of Gen. Hardin affected him alone, there might be some excuse for teaching him a lesson, but as it would affect the whole party and be against the interests of the State besides, there is no other alternative but for a good democrat to go to work to secure the election of the whole ticket. So let's up and at 'em, laying aside all differences and looking only to the good of the State and the welfare of the party which has always stood for the rights of the masses sgainst the classes and centralization of power.

Hardin's disappointing Louisville speech, made the same suggestion that the Times did a week or two later and which Senator Lindsay, Gov. Buckner and the Courier-Journal have now so ably elucidated. We are glad to have such noble coadjutors, but we do not propose that these eleventh-hour fellows shall come in and claim full pay with us who have borne the heat and burden of the day. We never could see the justice of such arrangement, even if the Bible does record an instance of the kind, with apparent commendation.

Hart refused to do so, however, because he is for Blackburn for Senator, a narrow minded, jackassical reason, that made the McCreary men, who are in the majority there, exceedingly wroth and who will likely sit down hard on the litto and few in a hill. THE silly third term talk continues to furnish a topic in these very dry times both in the political as well as the material world. this is the most successful trip I Commerce Building, Louisville goods. Recently I bought dry goods at less than half price a comes the failure and sale of Alteaching as before. Address bert Goldsmith & Co., which excels all sales ever made in Cincinnati, of men's, youths', boys' and children's suits, pants and overcoats. I have bought a big pile of them and at prices that will tickle the rich and the poor alike. They are the latest styles and fabrics, every garment made for this Fall and Winter trade. I not onin every line. I have the most elegant line of gents' furnishing goods ever shown in Hustonville.

Every one knows that a merchant must make sufficient profit on his goods to pay all expenses and his living besides.

My expenses are very small. 1st. I own the house I live in. No rent to pay.

2d. I own the house I sell goods in. No rent to pay.

3d. I do my own work. No big clerk hire to pay. 4th. I pay cash and get the big discount. 5th. I watch the market and get the big bargains.

6th. I have the inclinationyes, the determination, to lead in prices, style and quality, and I WILL lead or quit the business.

Most respectfully, JAMES FRYE.

THE LEXINGTON TROTS. -The greatest trotting meeting ever held in America will begin at Lexington, Tuesday, Oct. 8th, and continue through the 18th. The amount to be distributed will be $77,250 and the programme has not a weak spot (day) in it. See advertisement in this issue. A list of entries will be furnished free to those who apply to Ed A. Tipton, Sec'y., Lexington, Ky.; but we wish to call especial attention to the fact that the great $25,000 Futurity and Tennessee Stakes will be contested on first day; the Transylvania ($5,000) on third day; the Kentucky on sixth day; the Stallion Representative ($5,000) on seventh day, and the Bluegrass on last day. So no matter what part of the meeting you wish to attend, you will strike an attraction. Excursion rates, one fare for round-trip from all points in Kentucky.

FOR SALE OR EXCHANGE.

I would like to exchange my LIVERY STABLE in London, Ky., consisting of 15 good, fresh Horses, Buggies, Drummers' Wagons, and in fact everything connected with a first-class Stable, for a small Farm of about 60 acres near Stanford. This out it is almost new, having bought the most of it since the first of July. My only reason for desiring to dispose of the property is that I have other business that requires my whole time. The party who trades can have a five years' lease on the barn. This trade will suit anybody who wants to make money, for I have a good trade already established. I wou'd like to have some correspondence with parties who have Farms to correspondence with parties who have Farms to R. M. JACKSON, London, Ky.
